

THE TORONTO MUSIC GARDEN

INSPIRED BY BACH

As we mark the 10th anniversary of the Toronto Music Garden, landscape designer and author Julie Moir Messervy has published The Toronto Music Garden: Inspired by Bach in partnership with the City of Toronto and Margaret and Jim Fleck. The garden is the result of a creative collaboration between Ms. Messervy and cellist Yo-Yo Ma to interpret in nature the music of J. S. Bach.

With an introduction by Yo-Yo Ma, the new book describes in detail the inspiration, design and building of this remarkable waterfront public garden. Gorgeous colour photographs, sketch renderings and a list of plant materials used in each section of the garden will provide readers with ideas to assist in creating their own gardens.
